to his views on the suffrage question. The following letter from Mr. Warner, in answer to Mr. Langeton's inquiries, has been forwarded to us for publication. It Suffrage, and will be ready to avow his convictions frankly and boldly.

This is Mr. Warner's letter: HUNTINGTON, July 26, 1865. J. Mercer Langston, Esq., Oberlin, Ohio: Mr Dran Sin:—Your letter of the 21st ing accepted a nomination on that plat-form, and that being the authoritative exposition of the principles of the party by which I was nominated, I do not at this early stage of the campaign (or in fact be-fore the campaign is opened) feel at liberty to thrust my individual opinions upon the public. Hoping that the "logic of eventa" will soon furnish a solution of this, and all other questions upon which there is not now entire unanimity of opinion in our party, that will be satisfactory to all loyal mon,

With sentiments of kind regard, I remain Your most obedient servant, S. S. WARNER.

The National Temperance Convention Yesterday morning we published an editorial resume of the first day's proceedings of the National Temperance Convention now in session at Saratoga. An interesting letter in another column from a special correspondent gives a more extended account of the proceedings.

During the second day's proceedings a umber of speeches were made, Gerrit Smith, E. C. Delavan, Rev. John Pierpont, Neal Dow, and Rev. Theodore Cuyler, being among these who addressed the Convenintroduced and referred. Those of Professor Palmer, earnestly requesting the medical profession to reconsider their practice of prescribing alcoholic drinks in chronic cases and in slight ailments, were passed after a warm debate, and by a majority of seven, but were afterward reconsidered and referred to a committee. Resolutions were adopted recommending the organization of a National Temperance Society. The committee on resolutions reported, but a discussion arising as to the use of wine in the communion service, the resolutions were recommitted. The Secretary ceports 332 delegates present from twenty different States and four foreign countries. Sixty churches, eighty divisions of the Sons of Temperance, forty two lodges of Good Templars, and thirly-two State and county associations were represented.

UNION COUNTY-Col. A. R. Z. Dawson. General B. F. Potts has published a card in which he declines to be considered a candidste for the State Senste from the Stark and Carroll district.

Horace Steele, of Painesville, also delines being a candidate for Representative from Lake county. A caucus of the Columbiana county delegates to the Senatorial Convention of the Columbians and Jefferson districts for the purpose of agreeing on a caudidate, is announced to take place at Wellsville, on the 24th instant. The Gesuga County Union Convention will be held at Burton, Saturday, August 264h. The Senatorial Convention for the Ashabula, Lake and Geauga district will be seld at Madison on the 23d instant. The Medina County Union Convention will be held on Wednesday, August 16th, at Medina.

A Nice Point of Church Observance Settled.

Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, has settled a very nice point in the order of Public Worship for the clergy and laity of his diocese. In a recent pastoral, the Bishop trates with great ability the limitations of the injunction which the Church is bound to respect, to pray for all in civil authority. Bishop Wilmer thinks, as there is no longer praying any longer for the Confederate authorities. And he thinks that, as the only thorities. And he thinks that, as the only government they have now in Alabama is of the work to be done, and exhibits a spirit a military government, there is no obligation to pray for that, inasmuch as it does Beath of Judge Nye. Judge Nye, of Marietta, Ohio, one of the oldest lawyers of the State, died at his residence in that city on the morning of the 27th ult. He made a brief and pertinent address, and referred to the close of the war as an auspicious time for inaugurating this new national temperance movement. Vice Presidents were then appointed, and a busness committee of nine.

A communication from the Leland Bros., C. Willett tendering the use of their new Opera House, was referred to the business committee, who reported adversely to an ac-ceptance. The report was adopted and among these who addressed the Convention. A large number of resolutions were their offer. The remainder of the time was the deaths.

The roll of honor includes some three hundred names; among these are General Henry W. Halleck, General John Cochspent in organizing and at one o'clock the convention adjourned.

Ray. Dr. Chickering read a paper on the early history of the temperance movement, with reference to its connection with reli-gion, showing that during the first twenty years the ministry and churches were the main promoters of the cause; but during the last fifteen these elements have either ceased to be efficient agents, or have been slighted and discarded by other laborers.
Hon. Mr. Spooner, of Boston, substantiated the views of Dr. Chickering. A statement made by him that two thirds of the orthodox clergymen of Boston, for ng last year, had not twenty years preceding last year, had not preached a sermon expressly on temper-ance elicited warm remarks from several, who perhaps felt the shoe pinch.

The discussion was continued under a resolution urging ministers and laymen to take hold of the work anew. One speaker stated that "of the students attending the Unitarian Seminary (Theological) in Beston, one half drink intoxicating drinks and use tobacco;" and spoke of Artemas Ward's description of Harvard College as "situated plessantly in the bar-room of the Parker House."

The resolution was adopted unanimously. Dr. Charles Jewett, of Connecticut, the distinguished lecturer, then read a paper on the use of alcholic drinks as remedies for diseases, in which he showed, by extracts from writings of distinguished English and Franch physicians and chemists, that these drinks are often and usually more injurious than beneficial, when so used.

A special committee was appointed to onsider this matter, and in the evening they reported a set of resolutions, requesting medical men to reconsider the grounds for so frequent a use of brandies and other nedical men to reconsider the grounds liquors as remedial agents, and urging them to substitute other articles when it can be done, especially in chronic cases and slight ailments. So, patent tonics, clear the way! "Distinguished foreign" physicians your "occupation" will soon be gone!' An interesting discussion followed and occupied the remainder of the evening. An abstract of this will be given in our

I replied that it was very singular he should give so much time to showing these poor people over the Cap-itol, and then, too, to send his measuring with those intelligent, well-dressed people who came just before. I think Andy was inat as they were to inaugurate the custom of annuals, they ought to have a jolly good time about it, came out in black Oxford annual hats, and after they got through a little mad at first, after hearing me; but the examination, went off on Thursday last with a fine band and in high spirits, to celwe had always been go d friends, and he don't break with an old friend without abrate their deliverance from its perils with a grand dinner and jollification. At non-on the day following, the class of 1867, having passed the terrors of the last biena very good reason, so he was only allent a moment, and then said, 'Your insinuation is very unjust. These poor people are my constituents. I am but their servant, and rehed to the depot from Alumni hall, marched to the deposits of "Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching," with their hearts bounding with uncon-trollable and uproarious joy at the thought they have a right to require courtesy from me, when I have leisure, as I had to-day, to attend to such matters. They had come a long way, some of them were never tere before, and they wanted to see their Capi-itol, for it is their Capitol, built with their money. Now, it was no more than my duty to show it to them. As for the ciber company with whom I sent my messenger, why they were here merely for sight see-ing, which they were used, to and could easily find out the beauties of the building death, a recumbent figure representing the without their being pointed out by me."

"And that's just it," said the Tennesseean; "he has risen very fast, from the lowest among us, but he has never got above the idea that he is the people's servant, and that he is but doing their work." I saked him if he had known the President when
